Commentaires: X65 yacht with all the options. Carbonfiber mast & boom. Racing sails, racing rig, epoxy bottom. The use of heat galvanised steel to create a support structure for the mast and keel was pioneered by X-Yachts in 1981. Since then the Danish yard has produced more than 6,000 yachts featuring this technology and has won worldwide recognition for the strength of their designs. Strength and stiffness are key features of the X-65 that features a steel structural girder. Longitudinal stringers add to the stiffness of the hull and ensure that the maximum performance can be achieved from the hull and rig.
